

DEVELOPMENT TEAM LEAD

We like to build stuff, sometimes complicated stuff, for a variety of different business types and applications. We're on the lookout for a talented and ambitious web developer to join and lead our growing team. This person will play an instrumental part in the public launch and growth of a SaaS product as well as lead the development of a variety of bespoke projects. We welcome fresh ideas in order to continue to expand and continually improve the services and support we offer.

Responsibilities

- Planning and scheduling of work packages and team members
- Ensure timely and accurate delivery of work packages to customers
- Ensure produced development work is tested and functions as required across all platforms (quality control)
- Take responsibility for delivered work/projects and ensure customer happiness
- Be the key architect of our web and app development projects and lead their implementation by example
- Ensure maintenance of existing code base
- Ensure development practices and processes are efficient
- Apply knowledge and experience to ensure that we are following best practices and making things the best they can be
- Ensure all time spent on projects is recorded accurately

Skills & Experience required

- A critical eye for web design and application development
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills
- Hands-on Team Leadership
- Wide ranging experience of programming and development in a commercial environment
- An understanding of and desire to use good software engineering practices
- Ability to solve problems, overcome obstacles and take things to completion
- Strong CSS, HTML and Javascript skills with underlying programming knowledge that can be applied to any language.
- Time management ability and awareness

Unfortunately we cannot accept applications without plenty of examples of your development skills.

About Tanist

We are a long established technology services company. We have a modern approach and a strong reputation for providing quality, reliable, fully working solutions to the unusual and wonderful issues clients are faced with in their respective businesses. We are continuing to expand and in doing so want to ensure that standards are maintained and that we continue to offer the same great service and problem solving mentality that we have come to be known for.

- Choose your work equipment
- Friendly and comfortable working atmosphere
- Easy access to our new offices just off the A30 on the outskirts of Bodmin
- Company staff social events
- Refreshments and fresh fruit

Our hope for the successful candidate is that they take on leadership of our existing development business and continue to fuel the growth we have achieved over the last 10 years.

How to apply:

Please forward a copy of your CV with a covering letter about why you should be considered for the opportunity to careers@tanist.co.uk.

Remember to include plenty of examples of your previous work, as applications will not be accepted without them.
